It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

OF THE

MARINE SOCIETY OF NEWBURYPORT,

With the amendments and additions as revised by Committee, to November, 1845.

At a meeting of the Marine Society of Newburyport, in Massachusetts, held at Newburyport, in the County of Essex, on the tenth day of December, A. D. 1829, by adjournment from the last Thursday in November last, agreeably to the powers vested in said Society, by their charter of incorporation, have taken into consideration their several By-laws heretofore made, and being aware of the inutility and inexpediency of some of them, and deficiency of others, appointed and empowered a Committee to make a general revision of them with a view to render them more simple, compendious and efficacious; which Committee having made their Report, the Society enacted the following Laws, singly:

ARTICLE 1. It is enacted and ordered, That on the last Thursday in November in each and every year forever, the Society shall meet for the purposes of choosing by written vote, a President, Vice President, Treasurer and Secretary, who shall, if present, be immediately inducted into office; but if not present, the duties shall continue to be executed by the officers of the last year; and in case of their absence by others to be elected pro tem.—After such installation of the officers, the Society shall proceed to the regular annual business of admission of members, choosing the Committee of Finance and Charity, and attending to any other business which may regularly come before them, adjourning to some short day to hear and act on the reports of their committees and to complete all unfinished annual and important business.

ART. 2. That at all meetings of the Society, the President, if present, shall preside; in his absence the Vice President shall preside; if both are absent the Treasurer shall preside; and in case of his absence the oldest member present shall preside: And a meeting of the Society shall be held at Newburyport aforesaid, at such place as from time to time shall be agreed upon by the Society, on the last Thursday in the months of November, February, May, and August, in every year, and as much oftener as necessary,—the meetings to be opened by the presiding officer at 7 o'clock, P. M. from the 21st of September to the 21st of March, and at all other times of the year at 8 o'clock, P. M. precisely, at which time the roll shall be called by the Secretary.

ART. 3. That every member who is an inhabitant of the town of Newburyport, or who lives within one mile of any part thereof, shall attend every meeting of the Society, and be present at the opening of it; and if such member so inhabiting said town, or within one mile thereof, shall neglect to attend as aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay to the Society for their use, the sum of twenty-five cents for each and every such neglect. And every member who does not live in the said town, nor within one mile thereof, but lives within ten miles of the same, shall attend a meeting of the Society once in every year at the least, and be present at the opening of it, or forfeit and pay the like sum for the use of the Society:— And every member who does not live in said town, nor within ten miles of the same, shall be exempted from attending the regular meetings in person, but shall attend once annually at least, by proxy, one of his fellow members representing him and paying his dues at such meeting, or shall forfeit and pay the like sum to the Society for their use, without in each of the above cases the excuse of necessary absence, sickness, or the infirmities of old age: And the same fines and penalties shall be levied on all absentees from the adjourned annual meeting from the last Thursday in November in each and every year, subject to the like regulations.

ART. 4. That no person shall be elected a member of this Society, unless at the time of his proposed election he is or has been commander or master of a vessel, nor shall such election be made but at the annual meeting of the Society on the last Thursday in November, or the adjourned meeting of that day.

ART. 5. That previous to the election of any person as a member of this Society, he shall be proposed by one of the members and stand a candidate at least three months before the annual meeting in November.

ART. 6. That at all elections for the admission of members, after the candidate is named, the question of Yea, or Nay, shall be determined by the use of balls and cubes—the balls shall designate Yea, and the cubes Nay—and each member present shall be provided with one of each; and if two thirds of the votes are YEA, the candidate is elected, and the Secretary shall give him notice thereof. Two-thirds of the votes shall be requisite for a choice.

ART. 7. That every member upon his election into the Society, shall pay to the Secretary thirty-five dollars for the use of the Society; and in case of refusal after three months to pay the same, he shall be expelled the Society: And the Society may increase the sum to be paid on admission, from year to year at any of their annual meetings, as the state of their funds shall require, or they shall think expedient.

ART. 8. That every member of the Society shall, at every quarterly meeting, pay the sum of twenty-five cents to the Secretary for the use of the Society; and if any member shall refuse to pay the same he shall be fined one dollar on refusing to pay which he shall be disfranchised. The Society shall have power to remit the quarterly dues of any member who shall make application for the same, and who shall be unable to pay through misfortunes or losses. All members of twenty years standing and upwards, shall be excused from payment of quarterly dues.

ART. 9. That if any member shall neglect to make his quarterly payments when at home, for the space of six months without being excused therefrom, the Society may at any of their meetings disfranchise him.

ART. 10. That if any member shall refuse to pay any penalty, forfeiture, or quarterly dues, incurred or due from him to the Society, and the same shall be recovered from him in any court of law, the Society, may after such recovery so had, disfranchise and expel such refractory member for his contumacy.

ART. 11. That all penalties and forfeitures incurred by the breach of any by-law of this Society, and all the quarterly payments aforesaid shall accrue to the Society and become part of their estate; and the whole estate shall be managed and disposed of for the benefit of the Society by the Committee of Finance, chosen at the annual meeting in November in each and every year; which committee shall at all times conform themselves to the directions of the Society in the management and disposition of their estate: And the Society may at any of their meetings remove from office any of said committee at their pleasure, and fill up all vacancies by written votes.

ART. 12. That the Committee of Finance shall have power to invest the funds of this Society in the funded debt of the United States, bank stock, or other public stocks and securities.

ART. 13. That the whole estate of the society shall forever be appropriated to defray the charges and expenses of their preservation and advancement, and for carrying into execution their several orders, regulations and by-laws, and for the support and maintenance of such indigent members, the widows and children of deceased members,— who shall in the opinion of the Society be proper objects for their relief and charity; such support and maintenance, to be applied by granting temporary relief, or annual stated pensions, as the Society shall think proper. Such temporary relief may be granted at any of their meetings, but an annual pension shall be granted only at the yearly meeting of the Society in November; and no temporary relief shall be allowed to any member of the Society, nor to the widow and children of any deceased member, unless such member has belonged to the Society six months at the least, and during that time has complied with all the by-laws and has not been disfranchised: And no member, nor the widow or children of any deceased member, shall be entitled to any annual pension, unless such member has belonged to the Society seven years at the least, and dur-ring that time has complied with all the by-laws, and has not been disfranchised.

ART. 14. That all applications to the Society for an annual pension, shall be made at a meeting held three months at the least before their annual meeting in November. All applications for temporary relief may be made at any of their meetings for the consideration of the Society, who may, if they think proper, immediately proceed to consider such application and allow such relief as they shall judge necessary. All applications for annual pensions particularly, or temporary relief, shall be made in writing.

ART. 15. That each member at the annual meeting in November, shall, when called on by the President, produce his book of by-laws, with his name written on the cover and first blank page, under penalty of twenty-five cents for such neglect, to be paid the Secretary for the use of the Society.

ART. 16. That if any member at any meeting of the Society, shall excite any quarrel or disturbance, by which the good order, harmony and regularity of the meeting shall be interrupted, and being judged guilty thereof by the Society, he shall forfeit and pay to the Society five dollars for every time he shall so offend, and make acknowledgement of his fault by a sufficient apology.

ART. 17. That if any member shall at any meeting of the Society, profanely swear or curse, and be adjudged guilty thereof, he shall forfeit and pay to the Society one dollar, for every profane oath or curse he shall so be guilty of uttering.

ART. 18. That if any member shall in the opinion of the Society, be guilty of any notorious crime, or be a common drunkard, or be otherwise notoriously scandalous in his life and conversation, the Society may at their annual meeting in November disfranchise him and expel him from the Society.

ART. 19. That any member disfranchised by the Society, may be proposed again in the lawful manner as a candidate, and may be re-elected into the Society upon such terms and conditions as the Society may think proper to impose, he acknowledging and making a sufficient apology for his errors, before being proposed as a candidate, through and by the member proposing him.

ART. 20. That every member present in the town of Newburyport, at the time of the funeral in that town of any deceased member shall punctually and seasonably attend agreeably to the notice transmitted him by the Secretary, per order of the President, Vice President, or Treasurer, or forfeit to the use of the Society for non-attendance, twenty-five cents, unless disabled by ill-health or the infirmities of old age—and the expense of giving such notice shall be defrayed by the Society.

ART. 21 And whereas many inconveniences may arise to masters of vessels, who may be charged with cowardice, incapacity or misconduct, in conducting the vessels and commerce intrusted to them, for want of an enquiry into their conduct, by suitable persons; therefore, that in all such cases, the master so charged, may, in writing state the charge to the Society, and pray an enquiry into his conduct, at any of their quarterly meetings, or any meeting called for that purpose: And the Society, as soon as conveniently may be, shall appoint a committee of five members to enquire into the conduct of the person so charged;— which committee shall, after full and proper hearing, report to the Society all the facts relating to such charge, for their consideration; who shall thereupon determine the grounds and foundation of such charge, and the propriety or impropriety of the conduct of the person so applying; and if the Society shall acquit him, he shall have such certificate thereof, as the Society shall direct, under their common seal and signed by their President, and put on the records of the Society.

ART. 22. And it is recommended, to every member of this Society to be careful in his observations inwards and outwards, of the variation of the needle, the soundings, courses, distances, and all remarkable things about this coast or wherever he may be destined to navigate, and communicate in writing to this Society such things as he shall judge serviceable to the community, to be examined and digested by a committee to be appointed by the Society for that purpose, and lodged with the Secretary of the Society, by whom it shall be recorded.

ART. 23. That the Secretary shall demand and receive all fines, quarterly dues, and entrance fees, and pay them over to the Treasurer, who shall keep a just and fair account of all monies paid in and out of the treasury, to whom and when; and no payments shall be made by him but by vote of the Society, and order of the President.

ART. 24. That any of the By-laws may be altered, amended, or repealed, at any annual meeting in November, by its being submitted to the Society, in writing, three months previous, and provided two-thirds of the members present shall be in favor of such alteration, amendment, or repeal.

At all funerals of deceased members the President shall appoint two of the members to act as Marshals in the procession; and in proceeding to the grave-yard, the youngest members of the Society take the advance, preceding the bier; and on arrival at the grave-yard open to the right and left, and the procession having passed between, the order of procession is to be reversed—viz: The officers and the eldest members of the Society are to take the lead, and follow the procession, and when quite out of the grave yard, each individual member is at liberty to leave the procession at his own convenience.
